September 16-19, 2007

Plus an optional special pre-conference
Neonatal Resuscitation Program (NRP) course on September 16, 2007

Radisson Hotel
Denver Southeast
Aurora, Colorado

Jointly sponsored by:
The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists
Developed by ACOG for: The Indian Health Service

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Note that many of the topics covered relate directly to risk management and to IHS GPRA objectives.

The postgraduate course on Obstetric, Neonatal and Gynecologic care is a three-day multidisciplinary course that provides practical, evidence-based approaches to the recognition, management, consultation and referral of health problems of American Indian & Alaska Native Women. The course is specifically tailored to IHS, Tribal and Urban primary care providers and nurses through a variety of lectures and interactive small-group workshops. The faculty has expertise in providing health care to women and children in Indian health care facilities.

The course not only provides an excellent overview for health care providers interested in Indian women's health issues, but also provides recent updates, findings and trends in women's and neonatal health. It also serves as a great refresher for experienced physicians, clinical nurses, nurse practitioners, nurse midwives, and physician assistants.

The course brings together health care providers committed to improving the health of American Indian/Alaska Native women and children. It provides an opportunity for exchange of information and experiences that address the unique challenges of developing and managing an effective maternal-infant program at the service unit level.
