

What I really find rewarding about what I do is the actual hands-on, direct patient care when you're actually, you know, you making a difference in this patient's life. I wanted to work with IHS so I could work with the Native American community. Once I got here, I realized that I wouldn't have wanted to be anywhere else.