

DOCUMENTATION THAT IS ACCEPTABLE TO PROVIDE PROOF OF RESIDENCY

Eligibility of Purchased/Referred Care (PRC) is defined in 42 CFR 136.23.

It is the responsibility of the IHS beneficiary claiming eligibility for Purchased/Referred Care to provide documentation of residency to determine if the beneficiary is eligible to receive Purchased/Referred Care formerly known as Contract Health Services. Following is a list of documents that can be used in determining residency for PRC eligibility.

- A valid driver license or state issued identification card with the patients current address
- Current mortgage contract signed and executed or a rental or lease agreement
- Statement from a landlord, housing authority, social services or homeless shelter
- Current utility bills with current address
 - Water
 - Gas
 - Electricity
 - Propane
 - Sewer/Garbage/Recycle
 - Cable or Satellite Television
- W2 Form for the current year
- Recent bank statement showing patient name and address
- Life, home, auto, or health insurance statement or policy with current address
- Government documents issued by federal, tribal, state or local units of government
 - IRS documents
 - General Assistance with current address from the tribal
 - Voters registration with US or Tribal Government
 - Food stamps communication with current address
 - Medicaid stipend with current address or Medicaid eligibility letter with current address
- Professional license with current address
 - Nurse
 - Engineer
 - CMA certificate
 - Plumber/Electrician