

You can install water saving fixtures in your home and practice water conservation techniques to decrease your family's water usage. If your water usage is higher than normal or you notice increasing costs for electricity, you could have leaking fixtures, to include the toilet. Leaks that go unrepaired can lead to excess water use and overburden the water and wastewater systems. It can be very costly to repair or even replace broken systems.