Duration: 1 hour

Presenter:

Anthony Fleg, MD, MPH, Cynthia Guzmán, PhD, MSCP, and Brenda Freeman, PhD, LCPC, CPC, NCC

Description:

This webinar will discuss different models of integrated care that are considered to be a part of the continuum of care by a panel of experienced behavioral health professionals. The pros and cons of the different models within various settings will be shared, as well as firsthand accounts of how this has enhanced a client's care. Finally, practical strategies to advance your agency to the next stage in integration will be shared.

Outcomes/Objectives:

1. Examine the unique aspects of different models of integrated care.
2. Utilize key steps and strategies to develop integration of care that is site-specific.
3. Identify the next stage of integration and develop steps to achieve this goal.

Content Level:

Beginner

Target Audience:

Members of the healthcare team

About the Presenter

Anthony Fleg is a healer who believes in the power of art and word to heal. Originally from Baltimore, Anthony grounds his healing work in undoing racism, health equity, and with a focus on strengths and holistic health. He is a co-founder of the Native Health Initiative (NHI), and is a family medicine physician.

Dr. Cynthia E. Guzmán is a licensed psychologist who has devoted her career to addressing health disparities in underserved communities, primarily in Indian Country. She has experience with program design, development, and implementation of programs that address co-occurring disorders as well as primary care/mental health integration. Aside from clinical work and the supervision of other trainees, Dr. Guzmán considers herself a servant leader and enjoys consulting with other tribes seeking to advance tribal healthcare in their communities, as well as providing trainings on behavioral health approaches from an indigenous perspective.

Dr. Brenda Freeman lives in Reno, Nevada, and is a Professor of Counseling and Educational Psychology and an Extension Mental Health Specialist at the University of Nevada, Reno. She is honored to have had the opportunity to provide program evaluation and technical assistance to American Indian/Alaska Native communities for more than 20 years, including working with integrated care for the past 5 years. Brenda earned her Doctorate in Counselor Education and Supervision from the University of Wyoming and is a licensed mental health provider in two states. She has authored more than 50 journal articles and monographs, several of which are related to American Indian/Alaska Native culture, mental health, and disparities in access to care and educational opportunities.
